GOVERNOR POINTS WAY TO HIGH SERVICE TO COLLEGE GRADUATES

Lines of Useful Endeavor are Shown in Address at College of Hawaii Banquet

The territory has some agricultural and social problems it wants solved, and wants them promptly solved, and if I can feel the public pulse, expects the College of Hawaii to be a factor in so doing.

So spoke Governor Pinkham at an address at the annual banquet of the College of Hawaii students at the University Club last night, thus emphasizing the part which the territory expects the college to play in its affairs from year to year.

The tone of Governor Pinkham's address was in keeping with the spirit of the banquet. Regents, faculty, alumni, students and many invited guests were present. The affair was a forerunner to the commencement exercises of the college which will be held on the campus, Manoa valley, at 4 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon.

Green and white, the college colors, were the decorations, and the banquet tables were decorated with flowers, greens and college emblems. Tomono Imai, class of 1915, was toastmaster. One of the features of the evening was the presentation of the "Lamp of Learning" to the present junior class by Yakichi Kutsunai, class of 1913. The lamp was received by R. M. Goo, class of 1916. During the banquet college songs were sung, addresses were delivered and musical selections rendered. The roll call of classes was responded to by Dr. Arthur L. Andrews, Governor Pinkham, W. R. Farrington and President A. L. Dean were the speakers.

In part, Governor Pinkham's address was as follows:

"There is something more important in any institution than elaborate equipment, and that is intense enthusiasm, intense application, intense common sense and a determination of professors, teachers and students to prosecute studies without those distractions that interfere with strength of character, strength of mentality, strength of purpose and notable accomplishment.

Results What Count. It may be old-fashioned in my ideas but I would much prefer to see an agricultural student, practicing real agriculture for his intelligence, health and tangible objects than engaging very exclusively in certain popular athletics.

"The College of Hawaii, although it took some urgency to get action, has, in its joint summary of agricultural conditions and efforts in this territory, performed a real and imperative service to Hawaii and its population.

"Has the College of Hawaii any definite information for these youths or any other youth willing to work physically and promptly that will enable them to earn a living on any of our lands without no end of experimentation and risk?

"Can the College of Hawaii differentiate between conditions on various tracts so as to make no mistakes in its advice or information. It should be able to.

"Possibly the College of Hawaii is ready with specific, reliable advice. I do not know. I hope so.

"What I am here for, and what I am talking for is to impress upon you that within a few years what you know or do is necessary for those coming young men who must leave our social, political and material loaf of civilization."

These present were:

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Farrington, Mrs. J. R. Ashford, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Waldron, Hon. Lucius E. Pinkham, Miss Minnie E. Chipman, Dr. J. F. Illingworth, Prof. H. S. Walker, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. ### HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water and drop in one Optona tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind, or nearly so, or who wear glasses would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of those victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-changing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.—Adv.

BISHOP OUTLINES SOME RESULTS OF BIG CONVOCATION

Rt. Rev. Henry Bond Restarick Praises Laymen and Clergy For Work of Past Year

By BISHOP HENRY B. RESTARICK.

The 13th annual convocation of the American Episcopal church in the Hawaiian islands was a most successful one in every way. In the first place there prevailed, as always in the past 12 years, an earnest and harmonious desire to work together for the spread of Christ's kingdom among men.

Some of the clergy who have left the islands were greatly missed, but others are expected soon to take their place. The convocation has always been fortunate in having strong and interested laymen. Many of the debates every year have been an education to the younger members of the convocation. Last year the debate on the cathedral statutes was an education to all present on ecclesiastical law and custom and there were able lawyers present who had studied the matter thoroughly.

Probably there is no diocesan convention anywhere in which the young men are so numerous in proportion, or so prominent. Generally in church councils we find aged men, but here in Honolulu the young men have always been prominent and numerous. Among the officers of the convocation elected who are young men, is the Rev. J. Knox Bodel, secretary; E. P. Melanphy, assistant secretary; R. B. McGrew, treasurer; Arthur G. Smith, chancellor. The young men are represented on every committee and take an intelligent and deep interest in all that concerns the church in the islands and in the world.

At this convocation the elections and other routine business were despatched with extraordinary celerity. This was due first to the fact that full preparation had been made, all reports were ready, and secondly because there was a unanimity in the choice of elected officers so that the elections occupied a very short time.

What occupied the attention of the convocation longer than any other matter was the subject of pensions for the clergy. This is not a local question, but one which has been sent from the general convention to each diocese for their expression of approval or disapproval. The plan has been worked out by some of the best known actuaries in the United States and commends itself to business men. Heretofore the relief of aged or infirm clergy has been in the nature of a charity, but the laity of the church have determined that the matter of pensions should be put on a business basis. In the convocation just passed the laity were the ones who debated the question. The clergy were not heard from until the end when they were asked to express an opinion and then only one spoke. It was felt to be a question for the laity. The proposed plan was not an easy one to understand, but with such men as L. T. Peck, H. Gooding Field, John Guild, Guy H. Buttolph, Robbins B. Anderson and L. M. Vedlesen speaking upon the subject, much was learned by all present of what it would mean in expense to the churchmen in the islands. There was not the slightest idea of shirking any reasonable expense if the results were assured. There was not one voice raised against the idea, although some features of the plan were questioned. Finally the resolution was unanimously adopted indorsing in general a pension plan for the clergy.

The day devoted to the Woman's Auxiliary is the most interesting one of convocation in many respects. Some laymen are in the habit of attending because they find it of interest. For years Mr. H. M. von Holt has been present so that last year the women elected him a member.

Sometimes a great deal of money is pledged to various objects at this meeting, after appeals have been made by various speakers. At the last two convocations, however, the spirited and interesting giving of pledges has been greatly curtailed by the various organizations deciding beforehand to what objects they will give and how much. It is probable that another year the former system will be revived, as it certainly arouses more enthusiasm. When the Women's Auxiliary met 12 years ago, it was a very small and unimportant event but the last few years the large attendance and the reports of work have shown the growth of the church in the Hawaiian islands.

The meetings of convocation always impress the visiting church people as wonderful illustrations of missionary work. To hear addresses and reports from white people and also brief addresses from Japanese, Chinese and Korean, as well as excellent reports from Hawaiians, all is most strange and interesting to the visitor. On several occasions visitors who have attended convocations have become earnest friends and large contributors to the work.

It is hard, after attending such a meeting as the convocation or the annual meeting of the woman's Auxiliary, to fall of being impressed with the value of missionary work. One lady from an eastern state, who was here some years ago at convocation time, went home and stated that while she had been in India and China and Japan, and had little sympathy with missionary enterprise, yet she had been thoroughly converted here and to show her conversion she has supported ever since a scholarship at one of the schools and gave a large sum of money towards the building of St. Andrew's priory.

The clergy of the church in the islands go on quietly and systematically in their work and their real success is shown in the characters they are building up in the schools and churches. The growth in every direction in the past 12 years has been remarkable. It has had to overcome in the minds of some the idea which clung to it that it was the English church but people gradually came to see that the American Episcopal church is no more English than the American Congregational church or the American Presbyterian, or any other body of Christians which was transplanted from the other side of the Atlantic. There is no body of Christians anywhere in the United States which has had more men of prominence in the army, the navy, on the bench or in other branches of public life from the president's chair downward than the American Episcopal church. It is a constitutional church, and its constitution, affecting its local government and condition, was formulated just prior to that of the constitution of the United States, and largely by the very same men. Two-thirds of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and more than that proportion of the constitutional convention were members of the American Episcopal church. These things are only mentioned because in some localities this matter is not fully understood.

BOYS WILL HEAR INDIAN STORIES FROM BIG CHIEF

Boys of Honolulu who have spent nights and days with Fenimore Cooper and his "Leatherstocking" tales or other Indian stories, will be given an opportunity to have some tales of Indian adventure told them in real story at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Chief Hallstrom, a full-blooded Cherokee from the reservation in Oklahoma, who arrived in Honolulu last week to advertise the Indian movies at the Popular, has expressed his willingness to "talk to the boys."

He will appear in his feathers and paint and give the boys some "inside information" on the life of the American Indian. Hallstrom speaks English fluently. He will give an exhibition of the sun dance and the war dance, and also chant the weird dirges of the "Cherokees." All boys between 12 and 18 are invited.
